Planning Board okays redevelopment plan

The Wilmington Planning Board Tuesday evening approved, with conditions, a modified plan for the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority project on Jewel Drive.

The new developer of the project, Marteg Corporation of Rhode Island, had proposed some changes in the plan for the development. The development had been started several years ago by the Jewel Company, which eventually defaulted on completion of the project.

President Mike Integlia did most of the talking, for Marteg. The early part of the evening was devoted to a wide discussion of the area before Mike was given the floor. The only out-of-the-ordinary event was a letter from some people who described themselves as abutments, and who told the Planning Board that before any more development is allowed the planning board should go at 3 p.m. someday to the corner of Eames Street and Woburn Street, to see the auto traffic.

A road through to Route 93 is mandatory, the letter said, before other developments are brought in.

A letter from the water and sewer commissioners confirmed that a 10 inch water main is to be laid. The planning board is also requesting some "as is" plans, to be finished in the near future.

Dennis Rooney, who owns the former Belmont land, facing on Main Street, was present to see if the utilities that are to go into Jewel Drive could be extended into his land. The Altron Corporation is interested in purchasing 10 acres, adjacent to their present property. If Rooney wants an extension, it would go through the future Altron property.

Mike Integlia indicated, later, that this might be possible. He warned that, for the sewer sought by Rooney, there might well be difficulties because of the lack of proper elevation.

Marteg seeks to extend the present length of Jewel Drive. That was the purpose of the hearing.

There is a bond and money amounting to over $60 thousand, for the completion of the present drive. The town is having an engineer prepare plans, and will soon call for bids.

Integlia indicated that he intends to bid. He hopes to combine that work with the work he is proposing, in the street extension. Hopefully, he said, he can complete the paving by December first, if the asphalt plants stay open beyond the middle of November. Otherwise the work will be completed in the spring.

The Reading Electric Light, however, represented by Paul Carson, said that it was not prepared to go to work on the necessary underground wiring. The light company, Carson said, could not start until April 1. It takes time to assemble the materials. He has to call for bids for the delivery of the materials. Besides, Carson said, costs have gone up about 44 percent. Reading Light does not do any underground work after November 15, Carson told the planning board, and not until April 1.

Integlia surmounted that difficulty with ease. He had, he said, been talking with the board, of Reading Light. His firm was ready to do the construction, and install the conduits, so the Light Company could install the wires after April 1. Meanwhile he would have temporary wiring, to take care of the work being done, in the construction planning.

Carson agreed that this could be done, with the financial arrangements to be worked out.

The telephone lines, and the fire alarm wiring would go into that same trench, Integlia told the planning board. The Harwick Corporation, one of the firms already located in the industrial park, will, at their own expense, connect to the underground wiring, he said. He has discussed the details, but will do so again with Harwick, after which the planning board will be notified.

Marteg was not aware of any ad-

Application withdrawn at housing hearing

The outcome of the Board of Appeals hearing for housing for the elderly was anticlimactic, but not unexpected.

A large crowd gathered in the halls of the old Whitefield School, now the Town Hall Annex, for the Board of Appeals hearing on Tuesday evening. While the board deliberated on four other cases in the air conditioned hearing room, the crowd waited in the sweltering corridor outside.

About 8:15 p.m., the hearing for the housing was called to order, in a very crowded room. Allan Stanzler, an attorney representing Berkshire Builders, told the board that the application for a special permit was being withdrawn. He said that the Wilmington Housing Authority had determined that a number of abutments may not have been properly notified.

The hearing was to have considered a proposal for 80 units of housing for the elderly and handicapped, proposed for a site north of Wilmington Plaza. A great deal of controversy had been generated by the proposal, and an accompanying proposal for 25 units of low and moderate income housing, proposed for an adjoining site.

A special town meeting had been called for August 25 to deal with questions relating to the issue. The Board of Selectmen, though, cancelled the special town meeting.

Last week, the status of the Board of Appeals hearing came into question. Berkshire Builders, the developer for the Wilmington Housing Authority, sent a letter to the Board of Appeals, withdrawing the application. But Housing Authority members said that the application was not being withdrawn. Thus the meeting on Tuesday night was assembled, only to hear the attorney withdraw the application.

On Wednesday morning, Henry Borazzo, executive director of the WHA, was to confer with officials from the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to give an update of the status of the project.

Borazzo said that a number of alternatives exist for the Housing Authority. (Chapter) "774 gets closer and closer," he said. The Housing Authority is considering pursuing action under Chapter 774, the anti-snob zoning law.

Dr. Sager is asst. superintendent

By Elaine DePasquale

By a vote of 3 to 2, the Wilmington School Committee last week named Wilmington Reading Director Dr. Carol Sager to the position of assistant superintendent of schools.

Sager was Superintendent Walter Pierce's second choice for the job. He recommended her to the school committee last Wednesday after two tries failed to place his first recommendation, Social Studies Director Dr. Patricia Gagnon in the number two spot in the school administration.

Last week, three candidates remained in the running for the post, which has been vacant since former assistant superintendent Derek Little resigned last spring citing an inability to work with members of the present School Committee.

Following a 22 minute executive session which was pushed up to the middle of the meeting to allow more time for tardy members James Tighe and James Demos to arrive, Pierce, in a repeat performance of the July 9 session, recommended Gagnon for the post. Voting against her appointment as they did on July 9, were Demos, Philip Fenton and Linda McMenimen. Voting in the affirmative were John Brooks and Lester White.

The three members opposed to Gagnon's election had previously indicated their first choice was Cambridge School Administrator

Richard Phelps. However, when Pierce recommended Sager as his second choice, Fenton, McMenimen and Brooks gave her their support, while White and Demos were opposed.

Tighe abstained from voting for either Gagnon or Sager.

Only Pierce offered any comments on the controversial appointment.

"I find the remaining three candidates close to being equal. I could work with any one of them," he told the committee before voting took place.

Pierce also took issue with a recent editorial in the Town Crier which suggested the town take a look at how the school system would run without filling the approximately $30,000 a year position.

"We did take a look," Pierce said. "We looked at 14 towns. The central office cadre of two people (superintendent and business manager) just isn't there." Pierce also said he wished to set the record straight regarding the amount of time the system ran last year with two administrators. "I worked six months of the school year," said Pierce, who was out with serious health problems in January and from July to December of 1979.

Pierce recommended a salary not to exceed $32,000 for the assistant superintendent's post, an amount which has to be voted upon by the School Committee.

Sager told reporters she was both surprised and pleased at her appointment and that she would do her best to provide "the best leadership in curriculum and instruction."

In addition to her duties as Wilmington's reading director, Sager is also a visiting professor at several state colleges. She has published several professional articles and has been a consultant for educational and curriculum matters to various towns and textbook publishers.

Demos, who voted against Sager's appointment, indicated that he still considered Phelps his first choice. He said, however, he thought Sager would do a good job if she would give up her outside commitments. On at least one occasion in the past the matter of Sager's outside activities came up for discussion at School Committee meetings. In an interview last week with a local newspaper, however, Sager said that if she were selected for the post she would clear her schedule and be available Monday through Thursday evenings as well as normal working hours.

In other action, the School Committee solved the persistent problem of reorganization by voting to keep its present officers for another year. On several occasions during the spring and summer months the board had been unable to break a deadlock between two aspiring candidates for the chairman's seat. Linda McMenimen has held the support of Fenton and Tighe while the candidacy of John Brooks has been supported by White and Demos on the six-member board.

As a result of last week's vote, Lester White will retain the seat for another year.

The School Committee also voted 4 to 0 on a motion by John Brooks to review the school department's policy regarding occupational leaves of absence for staff members who wish to explore another career. Despite the feelings of some board members that such leaves were ill advised, the board granted a year off without pay to two staff members who were exploring other career choices.

Brooks said that because of the precarious condition of the economy and the school department's effort to prevent as many teacher lay-offs as possible he was "reluctant to be reserving jobs for people for a whole year."

He voted for the two leaves of absence before the board, however, citing that it has been past practice to grant such leaves and that "you can't change a policy in mid-air."

Voting against both leaves of absence was Lester White. "I think we overuse the case of past practice," he said. "If we continue in that light, we will never correct anything we have ever done."

The front yard of the Harnden Tavern is the setting for a television commercial shot on Monday afternoon to publicize Wilmington's 250th anniversary. The commercial is for a drawing to be held on a painting of the Harnden Tavern. Second prize in the drawing is a 250th anniversary plate and mug set, produced by the Wilmington Minutemen.

The commercial was taped by Steve Bissett of Channel 6. Taking part in the commercial were Sonja Carlson, artist, and Robert Cain, chairman of the Board of Selectmen and a member of the 250th Anniversary Committee.

Poll results

Last week's poll on housing for Wilmington, published in the Town Crier, has received, to date, 45 responses.

1. Are you in favor of more housing for the elderly in Wilmington? 34 Yes, 11 No.
2. Are you in favor of the proposed elderly project near Wilmington Plaza? 16 Yes, 27 No, 2 no answer.
3. Are you in favor of accepting HUD funds for elderly housing? 11 Yes, 34 No.

4. Are you in favor of low and moderate income housing in Wilmington? 7 Yes, 38 No.

5. If Wilmington must accept low and moderate income housing to get HUD financed elderly housing, should the town accept it? 7 Yes, 38 No.

All respondents indicated that they are registered voters.

Questionnaires will be accepted through Labor Day. A complete tally of results, with comments submitted, will be published next week.

He walked across Europe to freedom

In front of the Museum of Science in Boston stands an old locomotive. It is a monument to a day of railroading, being preserved for the future generations.

That locomotive is also a monument to a man named Harry Solow. It was Harry Solow, blacksmith and welder, who put that old locomotive together again, and into working condition.

Harry was a welder, in the Billerica Car Shops. That was in the days when those car shops was the principal repair shop for the old Boston & Maine Railroad. Before that he was a blacksmith, in the old Fore River shipyard in Quincy.

It is hard to imagine Harry Solow as a blacksmith. He was a small man, of gentle mien. But he worked in the Quincy Shipyard, as it was called, during the turbulent days of World War I, when the call was for ships - and more ships. He was a blacksmith in that yard.

Harry was born in Russia. The world today knows little of the life of the Jewish people, in that country, in the days of the Czar. Those were the days of the pogroms.

A pogrom, in Russia, was a way of life for some of the non-Jewish people of that country. The people of the Jewish faith were assaulted and beaten, and often murdered. Life was harsh.

Harry came from a village named Melatopol, in southern Russia. He was born there, near the Turkish border, on March 18, 1892. His mother and father managed to escape Russia, but they had to leave Harry behind. They made their way to the United States, and lived in a Boston suburb.

In 1903, when Harry was 11 years old, came the October Revolution. That is an event which is celebrated by the Communists of Russia. It was much more than that, though. The October Revolution was a spontaneous uprising of the down-trodden peoples of Russia.

The October Revolution was put down - harshly, by the Czarist Cossacks and Army. Today the Communists exploit its memory.

It was during that October Revolution that Harry Solow and two relatives managed to escape from Melatopol. They had a little money, and they had passports, but they had no permission to leave.

Those three men (Harry was 11) started to walk across Europe. It was a long journey. There were places where they may have been welcome. There were other places where they were not welcome. Finally two of them (one had died) arrived in England, and made their way to Liverpool.

Harry was 13, when he and his uncle got to Liverpool. They had no money, no work. They could not speak the language. Their's was a life of abject poverty, in a strange land.

Under such conditions a man learns fast. He learns to speak the language, and how to get employment, if there is any. Harry and his uncle managed. They earned enough money to get passage on a ship to Boston.

He was reunited with his parents. He lived in Quincy, where everyone worked in the shipyard, and it was to the shipyard that he went. In a few years Harry married and became an American citizen.

It was in the summer of 1917 when Harry Solow and nine other men decided to form a synagogue, in North Wilmington. Most of them, Harry included, lived in suburban towns of Boston. All of them, Harry included, had hopes of moving to Wilmington or Tewksbury.

The names of many of those men are still remembered by the older residents of Wilmington. They were Harry Modelevsky, Jacob Cheifitz, Joshua Cohen, Harry Solow, Morris Modelevsky, Joseph Minsky, Hyman Minsky and Jacob Winer. In the way of the Jewish people it is the males who serve, in the synagogue, and the females who transmit the life and faith of the people to the younger generation.

Thus it was that 10 men formed the synagogue, which was called Congregation Ahavas Achim D'Arron. It was, of course, an Orthodox temple.

Harry and his family moved into Wilmington in 1923. Others, too, were moving to Wilmington. Harry was a resident of Wilmington for the rest of his life.

He was not a man who pushed his way into the lives of his neighbors. He was quite and reserved, but he was always willing to help.

The story is told of the day that the new wellfield, at the North Wilmington pumping station was blessed. It was a Sunday afternoon. Clergymen of the three principal religious faiths were present.

Just before the blessing of the wells a pipe burst. The superintendent had to have it repaired, and in a hurry.

Who was called to weld that pipe, on a Sunday afternoon? It was Harry Solow. The clergymen were out in front, blessing the wells. Harry was, down in a pit, welding the pipe. He would chortle, in later years, over the story, but it was typical.

He never was in the forefront. He was the man who was in the background, serving, friendly to all. He became a member of the Thomas Talbot Lodge of Masons, in Billerica, as a result of his years of employment in the Billerica Car Shops. It was, to Harry, a way of life. He became a 32nd degree Mason. He joined the Scottish Rite. He became a Shriner - a member of that organization that takes care of children burned in fires or otherwise.

He also adhered to the traditions of Judaism.

Congregation Ahavas Achim D'Arron did not have many services. There had to be 10 males present. Often there were not enough.

A newer generation was coming along, too. They did not feel that they should be Orthodox. They broke away, and formed another temple. For 10 or 12 years there were two houses of worship in North Wilmington for the Jewish people. Neither, however, prospered.

Finally there was a joining. The new temple joined with the old synagogue. Instead of being Orthodox, the services were now Conservative. The services continued. The synagogue had become Temple Shalom.

In his last years, retired, he was the most friendly man in town, if someone was to speak to him first. He drove around in his car, and he offered friendship to all. He never said so, but it would not be surprising to learn that Harry Solow possibly expected to live to 100. In his last visit to the Town Crier Harry wanted to pay for not one year's subscription, but two.

Harry Solow died on August 21. He was the last man, of those who had gathered 60 years ago to found a place of worship according to their faith.

The funeral services, in accordance with the Jewish religion, were held within 24 hours, in the Stanesky Funeral Chapel in Brookline. There were beautiful Masonic services, for a man who had long belonged to that order.

Burial was in the family lot, in a Danvers cemetery.

Harry Solow is survived by his wife Ida. They would have been married 66 years in September. There was a son Ben, who is deceased, and a son Sheldon, who serves with the US Air Force in England. There is a daughter Sylvia Levine, the High Holidays, in 1976, at Temple Shalom. Harry Solow is second from the left, together with Alexander Blufe and Harry Wiseman, carrying the Torah. At left is Cantor Joseph Golman.

But there were not regular services. When the people of the temple felt that there would be 10 men, for a service, a Cantor would be hired to lead them. Sometimes they would sit around in the building with only nine men. They could not worship as they wanted to.

Harry Solow also became a member of a Lowell Synagogue - the Montesiore Synagogue. It was both a religious and a friendly gesture, for he had many friends there.

Wilmington School nurse.

Also surviving are two sisters, Irene Oppenheimer and Ann Kleper, both of Florida and two grandsons, Lawrence Levine of Cambridge and Stanley Solow of Florida.

Two others, the late Sophie Glassman, a sister and the late Hyman Solow, a brother, have predeceased Harry Solow.

Four seek Senate seat

Wilmington is a part of the First Essex and Middlesex Senatorial District, which includes 17 cities and towns. Much of the district is composed of small, heavily Republican towns in Essex County. The easternmost part of the district is Cape Ann, including heavily Democratic Gloucester, Wilmington, also heavily Democratic, is the westernmost town.

The Essex County towns in the district are Andover (prec. 6, 7 and 8), Boxford, Essex, Georgetown, Hamilton, Ipswich, Manchester, Middleton, Newbury, Rockport, Rowley, Topsfield and Wenham. Reading, North Reading and Wilmington are the three Middlesex County towns in the district.

The district was, for many years represented by Sen. William Saltonstall. When he decided not to run in 1978, six candidates entered the race, four Democrats and two Republicans. Republican State Rep. Robert Buell of Boxford won the Senate seat; he is now seeking re-

Sen. Buell does not have any competition for the Republican nomination. Seeking the Democratic slot are three people, Robert Cain of Wilmington, William Gustus of Reading and Wilmington, and Regina

Villa of Manchester.

Cain and Villa were both candidates in the Democratic primary in 1978. Cain won the primary, and lost to Buell in November.

The 1980 primary will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Robert C. Buell, Republican

State Senator Robert C. Buell (Republican-First Essex and Middlesex) has announced his candidacy for re-election to a second term.

In announcing his candidacy, Buell said that he feels he represents the mainstream of thinking of his constituents. "I have served in the Senate as an independent voice for the concerns of the citizens from the 17 communities in my senatorial district," he said.

"Perhaps most importantly, throughout my legislative career, first for 10 years as Representative and since 1979 as State Senator, I have stood for fiscal responsibility in government," stated the Senator.

"During budget debates, for instance, I have been one of few legislators who, rather than offering the more politically rewarding amendments to increase funding for various line items, are willing to face the fiscal realities and propose spending cuts," Buell said. The legislator added that one of the few areas for which he has attempted to increase funding is the state scholarship program for Massachusetts college students.

Sensor Buell cited his involvement during the past two years in many of the key issues that impact directly on the area. "I have been an active member of the Special Commissions on Hazardous Wastes and Water Supply," he said, "and I have served on the Special Commission on Reorganization of Higher Education. As a long-time member of the State Administration Committee, I also participated in the refinement and passage of the legislation establishing an Office of Inspector General and reforming the state's system for the awarding of construction and design contracts," said the Senator.

Characterizing himself as a leader, not a follower, Buell disclaimed the follow-the-leader syndrome, which he said he has found pronounced in the Senate, since a majority of the legislators constitute leadership. "I am committed to voting in the best interest of my constituents, not in response to the desires of our legislative leaders," Buell said. "I have been one of the few Senators voting to be recorded on issues such as the Halloween pay raise, and the bill allowing the Governor to increase all license, permit and registration fees," he said. Senator Buell also mentioned that he was the only one of the six members of the Conference

Senator Robert C. Buell

Committee and on the gasoline tax who refused to sign the group's report because he did not like the bill. He also has sent a letter to the Senate Clerk requesting that the Legislature be recalled to act on the several proposed constitutional amendments, including the high-technology firms and citizens' taxation petitions.

Buell stated, "While I am a part-time businessman, I have been able to provide full-time representation for the people of my district, as evidenced by my nearly perfect roll call attendance record." In addition to participating on the special legislative commissions mentioned above and on the State Administration Committee, he is an active member of the Committees on Banks and Banking, Education, Health Care and Transportation. Buell mentioned that much of his work involves contacting state agencies to cut through red tape for area towns and to solve problems brought to him by local citizens. "In doing this, I have the advantage of having developed good working relationships with the many capable state employees who provide necessary services," he pointed out.

Sensor Buell is married to the former Jean Wetmore of Cambridge. The couple has three sons. The two youngest, Steve and John, attend Masconomet Regional School, and the oldest, Ron, will be a junior at St. Lawrence University in the fall. The Senator is an avid skier and hockey player, and says he has found time while in office to coach ice hockey and baseball. He also serves as Director of the Boxford Athletic Association and of the Masconomet Youth Hockey Association.

Robert J. Cain, Democrat

Robert J. Cain, chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, has announced his candidacy for State Senator in the First Essex and Middlesex District. He was the Democratic nominee for State Senate in that district in 1978.

Cain said that while excessive taxation is the first concern of most of our voters, there is a much ignored related problem - namely, insuring efficient cost-controlled services and regulatory efforts for the public monies that the state government spends so easily. "I am aware," Bob said "of the frustration of thousands of responsible public employees, when they observe the impact of contract abuse, cronyism and patronage in Massachusetts."

Cain is concerned because every community in the Senatorial District is subject to a water quality and supply problem even more serious than the limitations being experienced at the present time. Massachusetts needs a consistent policy, adequately funded, to insure that precious and limited water supplies are protected as a matter of absolute priority.

Cain is also serving as chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee to the Massachusetts Secretary of Environmental Affairs, which is working to control and eliminate the hazardous waste site in Woburn. Designated by the news media and national TV as one of the worst environmental disasters in America, that site poses an active threat to Wilmington, Reading, Woburn, and other surrounding towns. "Unfortunately" Bob reports, "we must accept as fact that many other similar illegal hazardous dump sites remain undiscovered throughout suburban and rural areas in Middlesex and Essex counties." Cain said he believes that aggressive State and Federal action is essential to prevent a repetition of this threat to both lives and the general environment.

As the last successful candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator, Bob believes he is the only Democratic candidate who can prevail over the Republican nominee in November. As an elected public official deeply involved with local needs and opportunities, Bob Cain is pledged to represent the priorities and values of the voters in his district.

Regina M. Villa, Democrat

Regina M. Villa of Manchester has announced her candidacy for the Massachusetts State Senate, First Essex-Middlesex District.

"I believe that this senatorial district deserves active, articulate leadership so that the many issues that face this diverse area can be addressed. The district stretches from the shores of Cape Ann to fast growing Wilmington and, at first glance, may appear to have few common interests. It is my belief, however, that the issues of responsible tax relief; safe and adequate water supply; hazardous waste, and the potential danger to our coast line posed by off shore drilling affect every single community in the district regardless of geographic location," she said.

State government now seems paralyzed by inaction, lack of leadership and outmoded, corrupt systems. Public confidence in elected officials is at a low ebb. Many have said that this is a poor time to run for office; that little can be changed, that voters are indifferent. I believe that the opposite is true. This is the time when those who are concerned must run for office; the system is ripe for change and improvement.

All of us have deep concerns about the public policies that affect our lives and those of our children, but we just feel no one listens. Our state government can be better and if those elected to public office truly listen to their constituents, the real concerns of the public can be translated to aggressive action that will provide solutions to the complexities of our times.

I believe that a state senator can play a crucial role in bringing together the forces necessary to address those concerns most affecting all of us. Too often, each city and town feels it is alone in solving its financial and environmental problems. Too often there is an adversarial relationship between the federal, state and local levels of government. I believe that a state senator can bring together all of those parties for the benefit of each individual he or she serves. I believe that a state senator can and should serve as an ombudsman for constituents when they are entangled in the bureaucratic morass. I believe that a state senator can serve as an educator for constituents and help to remove the myths that surround legislative and regulatory process.

I have always believed that one person can make a difference - for these reasons I announce my candidacy.

William J. Gustus, Democrat

William Gustus, a Reading resident and Wilmington lawyer, announces his candidacy as a Democrat for State Senator in the First Essex and Middlesex District. Raised in Wilmington, Gustus is widely known for his high school athletic and scholastic achievements. He received his B.A. in government and sociology from Wesleyan University, and his Juris Doctor from New England School of Law. As a practicing attorney, Gustus has been active in the District Court Public Defender Program working on behalf of children in need of services.

He is married to the former Terry DuBois of Wilmington. Both Terry and Bill served two years with the U.S. Peace Corps in Malaysia. Bill held a position with the Malaysian government in the office of the Prime Minister as a Director of Business Research, while Terry used h. With regard to the many issues facing the State Senate in the 1980s, Bill feels that the most serious issue is the lack of trust and confidence in government. In a recent candidate's forum, Bill spoke of the need of a new generation of leadership in the state senate, "We need people who are motivated and responsive, who will bring back a confidence in government. We must change the methods of political campaign financing. Large private contributions can be used to buy the influence of elected officials. This kind of financing must be prohibited by law and replaced by public financing similar to the tax write-off system on the federal level."

On taxes Bill feels "We must put a lid on rising state and local taxes. Property tax f of the property tax burden must be effected through increased state aid rather than irresponsible slashing of local services. State mandated programs must be funded by the state rather than at the local level. The abolition of county government would eliminate local county assessments and free up additional state funding for local communities. We must limit state spending with a tax cap similar to the four percent cap on the local level. And, we must enact a sunset law aimed at eliminating outdated state programs. We must provide for a review of existing state programs."

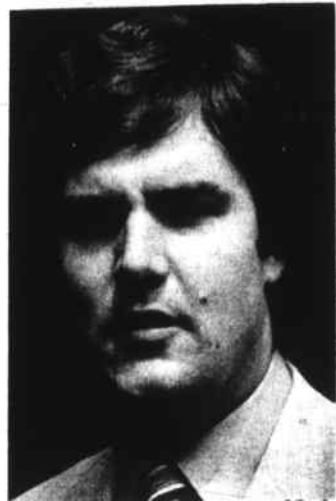

On protecting our natural resources Gustus said "We can no longer ignore the environmental waste problems. The Legislature has taken a positive step in the direction of establishing a disposal plant in Massachusetts. We must insure, however, that illegal dumping does not continue. Penalties for those found illegally dumping wastes should be increased and should result in mandatory jail terms for those found guilty of illegal dumping of such wastes with large fines for corporations.

At the present time each community deals with its problems of water supply and quality in dependency to surrounding communities. Regional water systems should be planned and implemented, to take advantage of the natural watershed areas so as to insure adequate supply and water quality to each of the communities within each regional district.

The regional approach should also be implemented in the area of refuse disposal. Recycling plants, incinerators, and sanitary landfills designed to handle refuse at the regional level can be much more efficient and cost effective than those at the local level.

Regional planning works to the benefit of the local community not only by providing better service, but also by lowering costs to the individual communities."

Methodist Church school

Sunday, September 7, is opening day for the School of Christian Living at the United Methodist Church, 87 Church St., Wilmington. Classes will be offered for children, youth, and adults from 9 to 10 a.m. each Sunday through June 14.

Mrs. Carol Warren, superintendent of the Children's Division, announced that registration is being conducted both by telephone and by mail. Parents also may register their children at 9 a.m. on opening day. Classes will be provided for each grade of elementary school with special pre-school classes for children between the ages of two and one half and five years.

Mrs. Warren said "We have a fine staff of teachers, aides, substitutes this year, and we expect to have a capacity enrollment in our School of Christian Living. Our curriculum materials are Biblical in content and relate Biblical truths to everyday life."

Mrs. Warren noted that parents of pre-school children have a new option this year. Classes will be offered for children through age five both at 9 a.m. and at 10:30, during one of the services of worship. "Parents can enroll their pre-school children either from 9 to 10 a.m. or from 10:30 to 11:30 or both. Curriculum materials are different at each session," Mrs. Warren said.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Richard L. Evans, said that classes will also be provided for junior high youth, senior high youth, and adults from 9 to 10 a.m. The Rev. Evans said "Previously, due to lack of space, we have been unable to hold Sunday morning classes for youth and adults. We are glad to be able to meet the educational needs of our young men and women this year in a more comprehensive program."

The School of Christian Living has no tuition. It is supported entirely by volunteer contributions and is subsidized from the general funds of the church. Parents interested in enrolling their children or inquiring further about the school may call the church office at 658-4519.

Telethon this weekend

The Northeast Firefighters Against Muscular Dystrophy will hold its 5th Annual Labor Day Telethon this Sunday and Monday at the Oakdale Mall.

On Sunday there will be an auction at noon, and a rock concert with six rock bands playing from 4 to 9 p.m. Other fun will include a dunk tank and game booths, and of course food and drinks. The Telethon will be broadcast by both television and radio.

Items to be auctioned include dinners for two, grease and oil changes, health club memberships, toys, games, airplane rides, plants, rugs, furniture, etc.

On Monday, there will be a gala parade starting at 9 a.m. Activities, which start at 11 a.m., will include an auction, games, rides, and prizes for every kid. There will also be special state police demonstrations and guest appearances.

And don't forget the Labor Day Grand Prize Drawing at 5 p.m. for a 1980 American Motors Spirit, donated by the New England AMC Dealers.

You can help local firefighters defeat muscular dystrophy by calling the pledge phone at 459-4222.

Over the past four years, your area firefighters raised over $260,000 for muscular dystrophy. Last year just over $92,000 was pledged.

Bus fleet may be reduced

A savings of $20,000 in the Wilmington school budget is likely, according to Business Manager Gerald Missel, as a result of a hoped for reduction of the school bus fleet from 15 to 13.

Missel asked for the cooperation of School Committee members last week in putting the bus reduction into effect.

"I expect the number of riders will change during the first two weeks of school," he said.

Elementary buses, he said, traditionally become more heavily used when parents stop driving their children to school after the first few days, but secondary school buses usually become lighter as students find rides with friends or parking places for their cars.

Missel asked the board members to delay acting on calls from parents until the second week of school. At that time, he said, "we will review the entire route and add a bus if necessary."

"I am fairly confident that it will not be necessary, but I want a week's running period until it stabilizes," he said.

Band trip

A jumble of band luggage waits for loading onto a bus Saturday afternoon, as the Wilmington High School Band set off for a few days at a camp on Bear Island in Lake Winnepesaukee. The band makes an annual trip to the island, in preparation for the fall season.

Grove Avenue buses rerouted

Due to construction on Grove Avenue, Wilmington, school buses scheduled for the Grove Avenue area will be rerouted for the first several weeks of school. With Grove Avenue blocked, buses coming in from Main Street will only be able to proceed as far as the Mildred Rogers School, at which point they will pick up students and then turn around and go back out Grove Avenue to Main Street.

Students living west of the actual construction on Grove Avenue and the adjoining streets, such as Winchell Road, will be asked to walk west on Grove Avenue to the corner of Lake Street to be picked up. Unfortunately, buses cannot be sent down Grove Avenue from Lake Street because there is no place for the buses to turn around. Until the construction is finished and Grove Avenue is again open to traffic, the following will be the temporary routes:

Bus 1-4 Elementary 8:25 a.m.
Lake St. and Grove Ave.; Lake St. and Warren Rd.; Lake St. and Fitz Ter.; Lake St. and Main St.; Grove Ave. and Main St.; Grove Ave. at Mildred Rogers School.

Bus 8-1 High School 7:15 a.m.
Lake St. and Grove Ave.; Main St. and Grove Ave.; Mildred Rogers School; Main St. and Dexter St.

Bus 15-2 W. Intermediate 7:30 a.m.
Main St. and Massachusetts Ave.; Main St. and Williams Ave.; Main St. and Lloyd Rd.; Main St. and Tewksbury line; Main St. and Dexter St.; Grove Ave. at Mildred Rogers School; Lake St. and Grove Ave.

On the kindergarten bus K-4, as on the elementary run noted above, there will not be a stop at Grove Avenue and Winchell Road during the construction. Kindergarten children who had been scheduled to use this stop will also be asked to walk up to Grove Avenue and Lake Street. Once Grove Avenue is re-opened, the stop at Winchell Road will be reinstated.

Wilmington School lunch menus

Wednesday: Chilled Applesauce, Frankfurt on a Roll, French Fries, Buttered Mixed Vegetables, Scooter Pies and Milk.

Thursday: Chilled Juice, Cheeseburg on a Roll, Buttered Corn, Potato Chips, Brownies with Nuts and Milk.

Friday: Chilled Applesauce, Italian Pizza with Tomato and Cheese, Buttered Green Beans, Ice Cream and Milk.

Wilmington school bus schedules

As a result of increased gasoline prices, combined with tight budget restraints, bus routes Numbers six and seven have been eliminated.

Students who rode these buses last year will now be assigned to other routes which have been modified to cover these areas. Because of the consolidation in these and other routes, students and parents are advised to carefully note their bus number listed here, as it may be different from last year's bus number.

Compugraphic had unusual wetlands case

Compugraphic Corporation found itself in an unusual position last week. The company went before the Wilmington Conservation Commission seeking an order of conditions.

An order of conditions spells out what a landowner must and must not do in regard to the filling of wetlands. The Conservation Commission issues an order of conditions under authority of the Wetlands Protection Act. In many cases, a landowner will be reluctant to appear before the Conservation Commission.

The Compugraphic case was

On dean's list

Candace Buffum of 95 Lowe St., Tewksbury, was among the 208 full-time students at the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Hartford, to earn a place on the Dean's list for the second semester of the 1979-80 academic year.

unusual in several regards.

The land in question is at the intersection of Routes 93 and 125. On it sits a brand new multi-million dollar four story building, which is complete and half occupied.

No filling of wetlands took place, a company spokesman told the commission. The site contains three wetland areas, and some surface water does drain into them.

Compugraphic had been able to proceed with the building without a wetlands protection hearing, because they were not planning to tamper with the wetlands. The site is large enough to allow the company to complete its plans without encroaching on the wetlands. A commission member said that he would have liked to have seen Compugraphic come before the commission for a hearing prior to the building's being built. However, the commission could not require it.

Compugraphic recently negotiated a $6 million mortgage on the building with a New York bank. In preparing the paperwork for the mortgage, the bank attorney said that it would be necessary to show a valid order of conditions for the lot. Company officials found themselves in a tight spot. The August 29 date of closing on the mortgage was rapidly approaching.

Compugraphic contacted Town Manager Sterling Morris, who in turn contacted Conservation Commission Chairman Chester Bruce. Bruce insisted that if an order of conditions were to be issued, it would have to be by means of a wetlands protection hearing. The hearing was quickly scheduled and advertised.

The hearing was held last Thursday night in the Whitefield annex. The commission waived the usual presentation of the entire set of plans for the construction project. Instead, they focused on areas where construction had taken place near the wetland areas.

The commission made it clear to Compugraphic officials that the hearing would not serve as a rubber stamp of approval for what had already been done. The completed project would be of the same standards that would have been applied had the hearing been held prior to construction.

The commission issued the order of conditions, stipulating that grease traps be installed in drains leading from the parking areas into wetlands. Other minor work was also stipulated, including sodding of a swale area near the corner of Routes 93 and 125, and some minor dredging to insure that there will be no increase in runoff from the site.

Retirement party for Chief Arthur Boudreau

Former Wilmington Fire Chief Arthur Boudreau will be honored at a retirement party on Monday, Sept. 15 at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks Hall.

Boudreau served as chief for nearly 30 years. He was first appointed as a call firefighter in 1942. After serving in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific from 1944 to 1946, he returned to Wilmington. In 1949, he was appointed, a permanent firefighter. Boudreau was appointed deputy chief in July, 1950, and acting chief in August 1950. He became permanent chief a month later.

Boudreau is married to the former Gertrude Downing. They are the parents of Mrs. Philip Carfagno of Tewksbury and Arthur J. Boudreau, Jr., of Boxford. They have six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Tickets for the event are available at the Wilmington Fire Station for $12.50 per person.

Maxx opens

T.J. Maxx opened a new clothing store at Wilmington Plaza on Friday. By the time the store opened at 10 a.m., a large crowd had assembled, waiting for the store to open. The ribbon was cut by Terry Patterson of Tewksbury. From left, Asst. Mgr. Bob Walters, Donna Proudman, Terry Patterson and Manager Dave Ryder.

Town Clerk Lynch certified municipal clerk

Priscilla R. Lynch, town clerk of Wilmington, has become a Certified Municipal Clerk (CMC) after completing a three-year education program for professional clerks held at the Newport College - Salve Regina. Dr. William Burrell, vice president and dean of faculty at the Newport College presented the CMC certificates August 15 at graduation ceremonies in Ochre Court.

CMC means that a clerk has had professional education among municipal clerks and access to educational resources that foster future growth among municipal clerks and leadership in their profession.

Mrs. Lynch completed 105 hours of instruction in such subjects as public administration, problem solving and planning, interpersonal communications, records management, municipal fiscal policy, and intergovernmental relations.

The curriculum is designed and approved by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks. The summer institute is sponsored by the New England Association of City and Town Clerks in conjunction with the International Institute of Municipal Clerks, the Rhode Island Department of Community Affairs and the Newport College - Salve Regina.

verse conditions affecting another firm, the JBF Scientific Corporation. He had not, as yet, seen the engineering report, he said.

Chairman DeRoy told Marteg that the vote will be by September 6. The planning board will have to study the proposals piecemeal.

Integlia made a short speech, on the proposals of Marteg.

"We are not approaching this development merely to pass land on in its entirety to other firms. This is our prime business."

"It is our intention to complete this in full compliance with the town and state requirements. We are anxious to receive the approval of the planning board. We request your speedy response. Time is of the essence."

The developer of record, he said, will be the Marteg Realty Company, a Rhode Island firm, of which he owns 99 percent of the stock.

Wilmington police news

Activity for the week ending August 26 included nine criminal arrests, six protective custody detentions and six accidents. Cruisers checked out 21 alarms and quitted 20 disturbances. Twelve larcenies were reported with items taken including car batteries, tires, cameras, CB radio, stereo, several bikes and the bell signal hose from the Jack-in-the-Box Restaurant.

Seven traffic complaints were logged, 26 complaints of malicious damage or vandalism were made to the station and six break and entries were investigated. Three cars were reported stolen and five cars were recovered in various states of repair.

Alert citizens reported 17 incidents of suspicious activity, seven reports of mini or trail bikes abusing private or municipal property were made. Officers quitted seven domestic problems and were sent to assist other police departments on four occasions during the week.

Tip of the week: Enforcement of the parking regulations through the town began in earnest last week with the main target the illegally parked vehicles at the two shopping centers. Fifty-two tickets were written for fire lane violations along with numerous others. Fines for violation can run from $5.00 to $15.00, and in some cases cars can and will be towed from areas where their parking is considered hazardous to public safety.

Dangerous games

Officials of the Deming Way housing project reported to police Tuesday morning that someone broke into an underground pumping chamber that is connected to the sewage disposal system. They poured chlorine all over the floor and broke a water pipe.

The concern of officials goes beyond the vandalism to the very dangerous position someone placed themselves in. Sewage and chlorine fumes could easily overcome a person who is not equipped to handle them.

Parents of teenagers in the vicinity of Deming Way should be aware and if anyone's clothing has an odor of chlorine, appropriate action should be taken.

Arrests

Early Wednesday morning two Woburn brothers were arrested by Officers King and Jepson in separate, but related incidents. William J. Robinson and Michael E. Robinson of Prospect Street, Woburn were stopped on Main Street just moments apart and arrested for operating under the influence of alcohol.

Michael was also charged with operating after his license had been suspended, speeding and failing to keep to the right.

William was additionally charged with possession of marijuana, failing to keep to the right, speeding and having no license in his possession. They appeared in Woburn District Court later Wednesday morning.

Officer Bill Gable arrested three

North Reading youths on Main Street Friday morning and charged them with a variety of offenses.

Joseph T. Burke, Lakeside Boulevard was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol, failing to keep to the right, possession of marijuana, littering, being a minor transporting alcohol.

James McDevitt of LeClair Street and a 16-year-old juvenile of North Reading were charged with being minors transporting alcohol.

Assisting were Officers Vassallo and Venuti. In court Friday McDevitt pleaded guilty to the alcohol charge and paid a $50 fine; Burke had his case continued to September 4.

Saturday morning Officer Venuti arrested Robert Dore of Burlington Avenue on charges of operating under the influence of alcohol.

Edward Provencher of Draper Drive was arrested Saturday by Officer Jepson and charged with possession of a controlled substance Class D. Officer Neville assisted.

Officers Neville and Jepson arrested Frederick Weldy of Malden on a warrant issued by the MDC. He was turned over to MDC authorities.

Tuesday morning a South Boston juvenile made a huge error when he stole a car. At about 6 a.m. Officer Robert Vassallo's wife notified the station that someone had stolen their car and her husband was chasing it in a second family car.

The chase went down Route 93 and into Boston. Officer Vassallo lost the car somewhere in Dorchester, but continued to check the area and located his vehicle and the youth driving it in South Boston.

Vassallo notified the Wilmington station at 7 a.m. to pick up his arrest at the MDC Old Colony Station.

Alert action on the part of Officer Jepson resulted in an arrest and probably prevented a break and entry at the Ski Haus on Lowell Street.

Tuesday morning, Jepson discovered several men checking out the store and while questioning them learned of a break and entry warrant for Richard F. Smith of Rosindale issued from West Roxbury Court.

Accident

Two people were injured in an accident at the intersection of Burlington Avenue and Boutwell Street Wednesday morning.

Carroll Kolak of Park Drive, Burlington was the driver of one car and Michael Filippone of Tewksbury was operating the second vehicle. Both operators were taken to Choate Hospital in the fire department ambulance according to investigating officer Arthur Lynch.

Stolen car

A 1976 Ford was found burned on Andover Street Wednesday night. Investigating officers discovered that it had been stolen from the Altron parking lot on Jewell Drive sometime during the evening and that owner Dennis Carroll of Pinewood Road was not aware that it had been taken.

Wilmington senior topics

Ending-beginning

Now that the summer is nearly over, it is again time for senior citizens to take an active part in programs at the Drop-in Center. All programs are designed to be enjoyed, and to help seniors live longer, healthier, more active lives. It is hoped that participation this winter will be as good as it was last year. Those interested may take part in all the programs, or in any one that is of particular interest to them.

If you haven't got one - get it
Any Wilmington resident over the age of 60 is considered a senior citizen of the town. It is the wish of those in charge that all Wilmington seniors have their names on file at the Drop-in Center. Those over 60 who do not have a Senior Citizen Card would find it to their advantage to obtain one. The Center is open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. every day Monday through Friday.

Socializing and services

Besides the advantage of having a Drop-in Center where seniors can socialize and participate in programs, social services are also available through the coordinator at the center to assist where help is needed. The Fuel Assistance Program, Winterization Program, Hot Lunch Program, Home Help Assistance, if a person is laid up for any length of time are just a few. There is continual contact with the Federal and State political offices to aid seniors in breaking through the frustrating red tape of government. If help is needed - ask for it.

Well done, Edith
The Summer Hot Lunch Program, held at the Shawshen School has come to a close. Seniors are grateful to Edith Muggford and her staff for the services rendered throughout the summer months. The fall Hot Lunch Program will begin at the North Intermediate School when school opens.

COA meets September 8
Since Monday, Sept. 1 is Labor Day, the center will be closed. The Council on Aging meeting, usually held on the first Monday of the month will be pushed ahead one week to Monday, Sept. 8 at the Center, beginning at 7 p.m.

Seniors planning float

Wilmington senior citizens are attempting to prepare a float for the 250th anniversary parade to be held on September 7. Anyone who has any old fashioned clothes tucked away in attics or elsewhere which could be used as costumes is urged to contact the center (657-7595).

Senior League registration

Registration for Wilmington Senior League baseball will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 2 and 3 at 6 p.m. at Rotary Park. All boys must be 13 years of age by August 1, 1981 and not more than 15 years of age by August 1, 1981. All boys who played last year must register to be eligible to return next year.

Senior League tryouts will be held Sunday, Sept. 14 at the North Intermediate School at 2 p.m. with Sunday, Sept. 21 slated as the rain date.

All boys who played on the Royals and Red Sox must register and tryout. There will be no spring tryouts.

All boys registering for the first time must have a birth certificate and an equipment fee of $10.00 each or a $15.00 family maximum.

The purpose of fall tryouts is to avoid a large registration in the spring, thus shutting out many boys who want to play. Every boy who registers and tries out will play on a senior league team in 1981.

Wilmington Pop Warner registration closes August 31

The Wilmington Pop Warner football program is underway for the 1980 season, with the registration period coming to a close August 31. Team rosters are filling up rapidly, but there are still a few openings at all levels.

The Pop Warner Board of Directors urges all youngsters from eight to 14 years of age who would like to participate in the fall football program to contact Mr. Biondo or Mr. Rinaldi, Monday through Thursday 6 to 8 p.m. at the Wilmington High School Field - or contact Mr. Biondo at 657-7711, no later than Sunday, August 31, the last day of registration.

All members of the A, B, and C traveling teams are reminded that they must submit a copy of their birth certificate by September 1, as this is a prime requirement for all members of the three squads prior to the official league weigh-in early in September.

All players in the three divisions must submit birth certificates prior to the weigh-in, in order to be eligible to compete in Merrimack Valley Conference play for the upcoming 1980 season.

Opening games

The Wilmington Charger teams open the season with a non-conference home game against Waltham, September 7, followed by a conference opener at home September 14 against Dracut.

Tewksbury Youth Hockey needs coaches

Under the new program instituted this year, the Division III teams (intramural) will compete in the Skate III Youth Hockey League at the Skate III rink in Tyngsboro. The teams will play a 25 game schedule against teams from surrounding towns and southern New Hampshire.

Those interested in helping fill these coaching positions should send a letter of application to Association Secretary Mrs. Ann Regolino, 4 Sunset Road, Tewksbury, 01876. Applications should be received before August 27. For further information contact intramural coordinator Don Fougere at 851-2072.

Top Arlington, 3-2

Mavericks tourney champs

Wilmington's Mavericks, the regular season champs of the Reading Pony League, recently won the Lexington Baseball Tourney with a 3-2 victory over Arlington in the championship game. Sixteen teams of the best 13-15 year old baseball players in the area comprised the tourney slate.

Wilmington's Eddie Olshaw was named the Most Valuable Player of the tournament, while Don Josephson was the tourney's top hitter. A summary of Wilmington's march to the tourney title:

August 9

Wilmington 3-Arlington 2

Eddie Olshaw was the winning pitcher and he also had two hits, including the basehit that drove in the winning run. Jim Newhouse, who had reached via a perfect bunt, scored the game winner.

Jon Nolan stole home for Wilmington's first run to get the offense started. Defensively, catcher Gerry O'Reilly threw out two runners at second, Rob Santos made a fine running catch in leftfield, Don Josephson made a super throw from right field to nail an Arlington runner at third, and John Blaisdell came up with two fine pickups at firstbase.

August 6

Wilmington 7-Norwood 2

Rob Santos pitched the win with help from mates Gerry O'Reilly with a two run double and Don Josephson with a pair of basehits. Craig Richards and John Blaisdell made fine plays in the infield for Wilmington.

August 3

Wilmington 11-Bedford 5

Craig Richards got this win with some fine relief help from Rob Santos. Olshaw paced the attack with four hits, while Ron Cahill was right behind with three safeties.

August 2

Wilmington 3-Woburn 2

The locals were off and running to the title with this first game win sparked by the pitching and hitting of Olshaw, who knocked in all three runs. Ted Moran and Jo Nolan helped Olshaw's mound gem with fine infield plays.

Pony League tryouts for the 1981 season will be held in April of next year. An announcement will be made two weeks prior to the tryouts.

Tewksbury Youth Baseball

Twins top Phillies for Senior title

The Tewksbury baseball program saw its season come to an end with the Senior League (13-15) Town Championship game Wednesday night, August 13 at Odbens Field.

After finishing second the past two years, first year manager John Fader took the Twins all the way this season, taking the American Legion pennant in a hot contest with the Red Legs before advancing to win the town championship, 2-1, in a pitching duel against the Phillies.

Winning pitcher Richie Campbell won the full distance for the Twins with 10 strikeouts, allowing five walks and three hits, helped by the outstanding catching of Bill Sheridan.

After two scoreless innings, Tim Sheehan reached first on an error and was sent to third when Jim Filadaro singled. Jack Fader then singled to score Sheehan.

The Phillies tied the score 1-1 in the third when Boo Tremlett singled, stole second and came home on a single by R. Mara.

For the Twins, the top of the sixth saw Jim Filadaro reach first on an error, steal second, and advance to third when Jack Fader whacked a solid single.

Jack Fader then broke for second base, setting up the winning play. The Phillies hung-up Fader, but in the process of tagging him out, Filadaro scrambled across the plate for the winning run.

The losing pitcher was Phil Farr who fanned 10, walked one and surrendered seven hits.

Manager John Fader attributed the win to great fielding, sharp play and a great coaching job by Ray Couillard.

Wilmington soccer

Sons of Italy completes super season

The Wilmington Sons of Italy soccer team finished fourth in the State Tournament for the Suburban Twilight League.

The team battled through the single-elimination preliminary rounds, only to meet up with Riesina, the defending state champs, in the semifinals.

The Sons of Italy played a tough game that Riesina won 2-0 to advance and regain the state title for the second year. The consolation game pitted Wilmington against Belmont as Belmont took third place with a 4-3 victory. This gave Wilmington fourth place in a league that consisted of 68 teams fielded throughout the state.

Wilmington's regular season ended with a successful 10-1-3 record, the only loss coming against Winchester, who finished with the same record. Winchester was awarded first place in the division on the basis of defeating and tying Wilmington during the regular season.

The Sons notched an impressive average of a little over three goals per game during regular season, and a total of just 15 goals against.

The members of the team would like to thank everyone involved with the club, and all the people who provided support throughout the season.

Wilmington Men's Softball playoffs

Four teams set for round-robin playoffs

Aslanis Fisheries, Realty World, Doyle's Hardware and Rocco's have all advanced into round-robin action in the Wilmington Men's Softball League playoff after playoff games last week. Round-robin games got underway Tuesday night and will continue throughout the week at the Town Park.

A summary of last week's playoff action:

Monday, August 25
Aslanis Fisheries 12-Sons of Italy 3 (Aslanis wins series 2-1)

A seven run third inning paved the way for this Aslanis clincher, as Dave Newhouse pitched the win over Bob Danahy. The Aslanis attack was paced by Bob Butters with three hits, along with triples by Doug Fish and Ed Doherty.

The defensive highlight for Aslanis came in the fourth inning when the Sons of Italy fell victim to a rare triple play. After a flyball out to rightfield, two Sons of Italy runners got caught in rundowns between third and home and second and third to end the inning.

John Szemkowicz led the Sons of Italy attack with a single and a triple, while Dale Porter helped the cause with two of the eight basehits off winning pitcher Newhouse.

Sunday, August 24
Realty World 11-Nash Realty 3 (Realty World wins series 2-0)

An eight run explosion in the top of the tenth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and gave Realty World this series in two straight games. Winning pitcher Jim Hachey went the distance, allowing 12 hits and capping his effort when he led off the tenth inning with a double and scored the winning run.

Jack Paulson and Phil McDonald chipped in with two hits apiece for the winners, while the Nash offense was paced by Tony Butler, Art Bibeau and Bob Gillis with two hits apiece. Losing pitcher Paul O'Donnell had a seven hitter through nine innings before the roof caved in during the top of the tenth.

Aslanis Fisheries 10-Sons of Italy 5
A balanced attack led the way for the winners as Bruce Butters bombed away with three hits and four runs batted in. Ed Doherty had two hits, including a home run for the winners to support winning pitcher John Trickett's six-hitter.

The Sons of Italy were sparked by Chris DeCecca's two hits. Losing pitcher Bob Danahy helped his own cause with three RBI's.

Doyle's Hardware 2-D&D Gulf 1
(Doyle's wins series 2-1)

Roy Meyer pitched a four-hitter, but was the tough luck loser as Kris Hinxman tossed a seven-hitter to clinch the series for Doyle's Hardware. Bill Blaisdell paced the winners with two hits and scored his club's first run. Al Swan rapped two hits for D&D Gulf.

Rocco's 6-Shawsheen Plumbing 4
(Rocco's wins series 2-1)

Bob Aprile pitched the win over Dave Stewart with help from Ken Sarchione and Jack Garden with two hits apiece. Garden was the defensive star with his performance at secondbase, handling nine chances flawlessly for the winners. Tom Stewart led Shawsheen Plumbing with two hits.

Friday, August 22
Shawsheen Plumbing 11-Rocco's 8

Dave Stewart led the way for the winners with three RBI's, while Ralph Peterson spanked two hits, including a home run and a double. Losing pitcher Bob Aprile went three for four for Rocco's. Snooky Lunch and Ron Lawrenson had two hits apiece to round out the Rocco's attack.

Dave Stewart was the winning pitcher.

D&D Gulf 4-Doyle's Hardware 3
Rick Nickerson and Kris Hinxman matched seven-hitters, with Nickerson taking home the win for D&D Gulf. Mark Peters rapped two hits for the winners while John Smith paced Doyle's two hits including a homerun.

Thursday, August 21
Realty World 8-Nash Realty 5

Greg Moulton lashed an inside-the-park homerun, while Steve LaFave and Mike Herra each had two hits to help Jim Hachey to the win over Paul O'Donnell. Bernie Wagstaff paced the Nash offense with a pair of hits.

Sons of Italy 5-Aslanis Fisheries 4
Dale Porter had three hits and drove in the winning run as Bob Danahy hurled his opening game win over Dave Newhouse.

John Szemkowicz banged out two hits for the winners, while Bob Butters and Tom Aprile each had two hits for Aslanis Fisheries.

Wilmington Anniversary softball

Class of '65 - living legends

In a classic display of softball superiority, the Class of '65 - "the living legends" won both their games handsily over the classes of '58 and '74 to reign as the 250th Anniversary Class Softball Champs.

In the opening game, after some difficult negotiations, it was ruled that the class of '65 could use ace righthander Jack Cushing (who took a postgrad course in '65), another "living legend" and the class of '58 (the 40-year-old wonders) would be allowed to use all 14 members defensively. Finally, it was the bats of Satch Sarchione, Slick DeMaggio, All-Pro Currier, Porky Newhouse, Dr. O. Orndorf, Hawk Baldwin and the double play combination of Nee-Noon Trimarchi and Bones Garden (the oldest member of the class), were just too much for the aging wonders.

Standouts of the class of '58 included Bill Fay, Bob Doucette, Mr. Safety Shelley, Sal El Tiente DePasquale, Gerry Galvin, Rollie Montiero, Paul Butt, Legs Amaro and a cast of thousands.

In the second game - an exhibition, a combined group of '69 and '71 players used their youthful speed to catch the '58 - '65 group in the late innings (boy were they tired) to save themselves some early inning embarrassment. Credit should be given to anyone who got a basehit. Do you know how hard it is to place the ball in an outfield consisting of eight fielders?

The championship game should not really be called that, as the class of '65, riding on the strong arm of Dickie Perrault, completely outclassed the rookie group of '74. The highlight of the game was a standing ovation for the rookies by their opponents when they scored a late inning run (they were also down by 20 at the time).

Credit should be given to the defensive work of Gene 'Sporty' Witham and the batting practice pitching of Jake "the Snake" Tighe.

Sportsmanship, reunion of friends, comradery, and total enjoyment described this year's battle of clans, neighborhoods and classes. The championship promoted enough interest and desire to look for rematches in 1981. Jack Cushing.

Long Shots clinch championship

The Long Shots are the champions of the Wilmington Girls Softball Intramural Town League after an exciting best two out of three game playoff victory over the Better Halfs.

The Better Halfs jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the series with a 15-2 rout in the first game before the Long Shots got their attack in high gear for 17-7 and 23-11 wins.

The Long Shots finished with an 11-4 record for the 1980 season, while the Better Halfs completed their campaign at 13-2.

A nine run first inning sparked the Better Halfs to their first game win, as Susan Carpenter pitched the win over Karen Rowe. The big inning also played a part in the Long Shots squaring the series at one victory apiece, as they plated seven runs in the first inning and never lost the lead. Sandy Craig hurled the win over Susan Carpenter in game two of the series.

The Better Halfs battled back in the deciding game of the series, taking an 11-10 lead in the fifth inning after the Long Shots had stormed in front with an eight run first. Sandy Craig and Karen Rowe split the pitching chores for the Shots in this deciding game, while Susan Carpenter took the tough loss for the Better Halfs.

Letter

Yankees say thanks

The Yankees' coaches would like to first thank the parents of their players, who took great interest in the games wherever and whenever they were played. They never interfered in the running of the team, and let us run it as we saw fit. They always gave us the most respect any coach could have asked for, and this attitude showed in the boys.

We would also like to thank the players, who gave us thrill after thrill every time we played. They were very easy to coach and provided us with many hours of fun and enjoyment. We were always proud of them, no matter how they played, whether they won or lost, because they were just terrific kids.

I am sure we will always remember the Yankee team of 1980. The Yankees were, C.J. Barber, Paul Buonopane, John Butler, Michael Fiorenza, Brian Fuller, John Harding, Todd Heubner, Bobby LaBosiere, Ray Mercuri, Robert Meuse, Eddie Silva, Eddie Shelley, Steve Tilton, Brian Wetzler and Mark Wright.

Finally, we would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Fiorenza who made us feel so much at home.

Thank you all,
Jim Meuse and Roger Trabucco
